Headmistress' Message

Technology - Boon or Bane?

Congratulations to the graduates of '96, and good luck to you as you move away from your happy home at #1 Braeside Place. You are continuing your education and beginning your careers at the very end of the 20th century. It is a truism to say that the only constant in your lives will be the certainty of rapid change. Of all the changes you will see, perhaps the fastest, most important and most invasive will be caused by the continued development of "information technolgy," the buzz phrase of the nineties.

Thanks to The Study's computer lab and computer programmes, you have used technology to do research and to write your papers, to create images, to make beautiful, error-free presentations, to record and store data, to dissect animals without tears, to experience earthquakes, pioneer life and The Louvre without leaving your chair. Some of you have even learned to design and control machines. You find your computers invaluable aids to information gathering, learning and problem solving.

I hope you are under no illusion, however, that machines can take the place of the human brain and spirit. It is you who have to do the thinking, you who have to make the judgements, you who have to decide if a piece of information is valuable or worthless. Fortunately, your other studies have taught you many of these skills, and your strength of character and independence of mind will ensure that you go on depending on yourselves for the important decisions of life. Use information technology as your helper; you are in charge.

- Eve Marshall

"Our memories of yesterday will last a lifetime. We'll take the best, forget the rest and someday we'll find that these are the best of times." NO HANNAH, CHA ROBELLI! I'm glad the bus ride was amusing for you all. We've been with each other so long, it's hard to describe how I feel. I love you all in my own demented way and always will. Mis, I love you so much, we are one of a kind, and you'll always be with me. Mis and Jazz graduate The Study. Dessire! DUCANNERIE that was the best. We've been through so much all I can say is "ineedatitza!" Nick, we've had the best summers. Camp was the best but Florida was even better. You are a good person, never change! You are someone a person comes across almost never. I'm really glad you came to Florida, George is hot! Arielle, you have always been there for me, even when you are ten hundred miles away I still count on you, you are the older sister I always wanted, as well as my best friend from PARIS! HEE. Rob, I can't believe I won't be in school with you anymore. I have to admit that we were very strange kids. My personal favourite will always be aquaman. I'm lucky to have a best friend like you and I'm sure Carl will never forget us. Kate what can I say, you are too good a person. Crocodiles will never be the same w/out you. R we going on a farm? No, I'll just chill for a while. Blue rodeo on the ridge, I'll never forget that. I may be away, but you'll always be close to me. Aimee, you r a true friend! Daddy, Ma, I love you so much. Yaya, you R the best in the world. There are so many things that I'll never forget, like, Quebec City, Stratford, France - AM, riders on the wind! Our "ups" and downs. Cotillion gr.9 & 10, parties, "Second Cup," game of snaps, geo conference, etc. I know it hurts for me to say good-bye but now it's time for me to fly.

love y'all Jazz

"So on and on I go / The seconds tick the time out / There's so much left to know / And I'm on the road to find out." Cat Stevens

I can't believe it's over! I have spent the past seven years inside these walls. I've grown up here with joy, anger, love and friendship. Here's to the memories and the friendships:
K.K. - I'll never forget the times we've had - Summer '95, our cat fight in the gym, sleepovers... I love you sweetie! / B.C. - smelly, stupid, prowlers, singing Green Day and your awesome octopus jungle! / A.M. - Age I'll see you in A.A.! wed woses, Cotillion, parties, our walks, our talks, your clothes! (Ha Ha) / D.B. - My never ending crises, people, places, situations - you name it we've talked about it! Too much to say, not enough space. Thanks for always being there. / A.C. - "My Big Sister," Kappa Rho beauty queens, coke, I may be Corky Sue, but I'm not a putz! / C.C. - The Second Cup, our talks about guys, all the good times / M.S., J.E., S.C. + M.O. - Camp YLCC - a weekend I'll remember forever / N.D. - We've had some unusual times. Who would've thought we'd be cleaning up puke?! / A.R., A.H., B.N. - you guys ROCK / Al - You're the best, you keep me smiling, Love ya! / To Em, the Other Lizard King - There are so many things to remember. I Love You completely. Thanks to the teachers, especially M.E., R.S., Mr. Mac & Miss Mill. Mom, Dad, Antoine -Thank you for everything, the love, the support, the laughter and the education. You guys keep me going. I love you so much. To the class of '96 - you've been more than just classmates, you've been friends. Good luck to all of you. You are all incredible people, and I'll miss you. Always remember - DOUBLE FUDGE BROWNIES ON A MONDAY MORNING! Love, Nina

Grads '95

There is a world in each of our moments; if you consider that there is an eternity in everything. In the time it takes to walk to school, or wash your hands, as you are moving through such rituals, there is a forever in that space of time. Until you reach the school, or turn off the water, until that end, there is only that moment, and within that moment, anything is possible.

Think then, of the days, months, years, the endless eternity that we have spent within the walls of The Study, with each other, some for twelve years, some six or seven, some two or three. All of the little eternities that have come and gone, every instant of time, speech or sound that has shaped us, taught us, changed us.

Twenty years down the road, what memories will we have left - will they be of great things, or of small incidents? Sometimes the most important thing occurs during the briefest time, for whatever reason, a sudden rush of feeling or thought. And in that moment, everything is clear and simple and understood, all friendships are solid, all tears and joys wondrous.

I believe we've all provided such moments for each other, through all the eternities behind us. And now, built on that foundation, will be the rest of our lives, the rest of our eternities.

Love, Deniz

how many special people change
how many lives are living strange
where were you while we were getting high
slowly walking down the hall
faster than a cannonball
getting high
someday you will find me
caught beneath a landslide in a champagne supernova in the sky
cos people believe that they're gonna get away for the summer
but you and I
we live and die
the world's still spinning around

This year was great! Thank you to everyone that helped and all the teachers, especially Frau Sutherland. We did a lot of great things like changing the uniform, organizing school events, and all those mornings in assembly... Thank you for the opportunity, we'll miss you all!

Love, Sarah and Malika

SPORTS CAPTAIN

Being sports captain is a great job! I have tried to do my best organizing intramurals, house volleyball, basketball, ski day. I think I have done pretty well. Thanks to the house sports captains, you guys were great!

Frau Sutherland, Vicky Connolly (sub editor), Bana Hamze (sub editor), Joanna Mok, Wasan Al-Azzawe, Kimry Gravenor, Nadia Niro, Beatrish Pacher, Amanda Eaman.

After much procrastination, the final statement of the yearbook is finally written: Grabbing a moment out of all the hours spent creating this masterpiece, I would like to thank all the members of the committee for their dedicated work, and wish good luck to next year's members. As an editor, I've gotten used to pestering everyone to hand things in, (fotos, writeups), as well as repeatedly spell-checking every piece of writing. One thing must be said - "You've gotta make it happen!"

Love, Deniz

Deniz Barki, Editor in Chief

Treasurer

Although there have been times this year I thought I'd cry out of frustration because no one was bringing in money, you guys came through.The Study made contributions to important charitable organizations. Among these were, Ça Marche, Lamplighters, Kids for Kids, Christmas baskets as well as for our Foster Child. Thank you for your contributions and a special thank you to everyone who helped with collection and money counting.

/e've had many obstacles in our way. Creepy otel managers and suspicious names like conomic Limo. At one point, we thought everyiing was organised but then, just like a zit the ght before a big dance, it exploded in our faces. /e felt shame. But like disco music, we manged to make a comeback. Now we have a room, aurier en Haut, a hot D.J., and our newest cquisition: limos. We wish ourselves and our eloved classmates good luck, (we're gonna need).

Entertainment

Well, our jobs this year were minor tasks for a strong and brave entertainment committee! This year we had representatives from each class which helped make our jobs a lot easier. Thanks to Vanessa, Kaitlyn, Emma, Marie, Nadia, Amanda, Kristen and Lauren who made everything run even smoother. Junior dances, Cotillion, and The Talent Show were a great success! We love ya, so keep dancing and entertaining.

The soccer season was a lot of fun this year. We played Centennial to see who made it into the playoffs, and after many penalty kicks, we finally won. We then went to the quarter finals and before we froze to death, we unfortunately lost. We all had a lot of fun, the team was great, and so was our coach, Ms. Caisse. Good luck to next year's team !

The Badminton season proved to be lengthy, but successful and most enjoyable! Three complete teams were fielded in each age-group category and league play commenced early in January and continued to the middle of April. Our section consisted wholly of Q.A.I.S. Schools such as E.C.S., Sacred Heart, St. George's, Trafalgar and L.C.C.

Results were mixed in the juvenile and midget categories with some close 3-game matches being played. SARAH COAD was a standout in Juvenile Singles play, tieing for second place but missing the cut for individual finals. CHLOE BARNABE and SAMANTHA HOFMAN, in Midget Doubles play suffered exactly the same fate! The Bantam team of Singles Players, JULIA O'KEEFE and SAMANTHA CLEYN along with doubles teams of ALETA BROTT and ELISE ELLMAN, plus LAURA MARCUS and LAUREN GOLDMAN won their section quite handily and carried on to win the G.M.A.A. Team Championship and collect gold medals for their efforts. Congratulations ! In Individual Championships, JULIA O'KEEFE took home the gold medal, while ALETA BROTT and ELISE ELLMAN took the bronze. Many thanks to all the reserves who supported the teams and to the parents who cheered us on. Particular thanks to Mrs. Petty, for her magic racquets and Mrs. O'Keefe and Mr. and Mrs. Brott.

Jessica Tory, Julie Bernier, Nicole Dimyan, Jasmine Ezagui, (absent) Sara Coad, Shivani Oberoi.

The tennis team had a great season. Despite a very short season, the team managed to do quite well. Congratulations to those who made it to the finals, and especially to Shivani who won the gold medal in her division.

Touch Football

We are The Study's first touch football team! We did really well and enjoyed more than one victory. Special thanks to our coach, Mr. Lochtie, who taught us everything we know, and was always very patient with us. Congratulations to those who improved their playing ability. We all had fun and look forward to next year.

Jessica Lapointe, Heather Ternoway, Katherine Creamer, (absent) Sara Coad, Shivani Oberoi.

Printemps

par Tamara Pokrupa-Nahanni
deuxième année

Les fleurs ouvrent au printemps. Le printemps est chaud. Les enfants rêvent aux fleurs et aux papillons. Les oiseaux ont des bébés. Le nom des enfants est France et Arfride. Elle vont au zoo. Elles voient des lions, des zèbres, et des kangarous. Arfride voit un papillon. Elle veut le cacher. Elle le touche et il vole dans la cage du zèbre. Arfride va à la maison. Arfride aime le papillon. L'autre jour elle est allée à l'école et tout le temps elle s'imaginait que le papillon était dans la classe. Le professeur dit à Arfride que c'est le dîner. Après elle a oublié le papillon et sa soeur France prend sa main et l'école est fini.

The Hard Life of a Bug

by Kathleen Stanfield Grade 5

It was late spring, early summer. The cool breeze was fading into warmth, and the air became moist and drenched with a honey scented perfume.

"It was one small step for bugs. The garden lay just across the hedge," thought Ruby, the green, swift and camouflaging grasshopper.

"I think I feel lucky. I know I feel courage, strength and power flowing through my body !" pondered Ruby.

Ruby wondered what delights were on the other side of the hedge ! Her heart was beating as fast as a huge, smoke leaking object.

She lifted her leg and stepped through the hedge.

She didn't want to open her eyes just yet. First, she wanted to breathe in the sweet and fresh smelling air.

As she breathed in, her body was filled with a stench so horrible, Ruby had to choke up the horrible air.

When she opened her eyes, she saw what had made the bad smell. The garden was full of yellow smog.

Many bugs lay dead on the ground. Some of them were Ruby's friends which she thought were living delightfully in the garden.

Ruby's heart broke at the sight of all her friends - dead. Her body was filled with sorrow.

"At least there will still be great vegetables and lots of green, scrumptious leaves," she said, trying to look on the bright side.

She looked around the garden and saw brown shrubs all shriveled up in corners. Most of the plants were dead.

When she looked at the plants, she noticed something. The yellow smog, which killed all her friends and many other bugs, was penetrating through the plants and killing them.

Ruby finally realized what the name of the smog was. It was PESTICIDES which she knew was made to kill bugs.

As she breathed in her last breath through the holes in her back, she said to herself, "Why do people put pesticides ro kill bugs when it also kills their plants ?" .

Ruby fell down and joined the other bugs in the graveyard. Many other bugs were killed in the same manner. Ruby just became another wonderer whose life was taken away by cruelty.

Changes

by Nadege Roscoe-Rumjahn Grade 5

Once upon a time, a long time ago, there was a huge blob of earth. There was no sign of life on that piece of earth. One day, a big piece of rock hit that blob, and the blob turned into nine different sizes and colours. It turned into a galaxy.

Some aliens came from Igmopolis and arrived into the new galaxy. They named it the Milky Way. They tried out all the planets but most of them were either too far away from the nearest star or too close; except for one. They named the planet after the alien that discovered it.

The aliens were exploring the earth when they foun a bird. That bird talked, walked and had a magic wand. The bird and the aliens had a conversation. Then unexpectedly out of nowhere the bird's wand lit up and he pointed at the aliens.

The aliens felt tingly all over. Then they squawked, clucked and turned around. They looked at themselves and noticed that they had turned into animals. Not too sure of themselves, they checked in their pocket dictionaries and found out that they were monkeys.

Over millions and trillions of years, they transformed and evolved. A google years later they turned into what we call human beans. Time still passed and they gave themselves a new name: "human beings" (as we call ourselves today in 1996).

The Wolf

Christine Kostiuk Sec. I

Tom stopped on the edge of the hill. Early this morning he had decided to go cross country skiing alone. He didn't tell anyone where he went because he didn't intend to be out for long, and because it was still very early and his parents would not be up yet. On the path that he always took there was one hill that was particularly steep. Every time he came to it, he had to use all his courage to get down the hill. This time was no different. As he started to down, picking up speed, his ski got caught and he went off the well worn path and into the forest. This had happened to him before, but this time he had more speed then usual. Suddenly his skis hit a rock and he went flying down the mountain side. By the time he stopped rolling he was at the bottom of the hill unconscious.

Tom awoke to a severe pain in his left leg. He tried to move it, but even if he move a muscle he cried out in pain. He was certain it was broken. What would he do? Nobody knew where he was and he couldn't walk back. Since the sun was setting, he guessed he had been out for the whole day. His stomach growled. He searched in his backpack and found an old apple and a squashed sandwich. Once he was finished eating he decided to go back to sleep because his head was hurting so much.

Soon after, he heard the sound of twigs breaking. He thought that maybe it was some people. He yelled to tell them where he was and then waited. A minute later a big wolf came out of the woods. Tom froze on horror. He stared at the wolf with fear in his eyes not knowing what to do. He was sure his life was over. The wolf looked at him and then went back into the woods. Tom was sure he would be unable to sleep, but an hour later he was sleeping, while the snow fell around him.

When he woke again, the pain in his head was gone, but there was still a lot of pain in his leg. He looked around and noticed a big piece of meat, some branches that had been broken off and in a hole that had been scratched in the ground. Everywhere he looked were wolf prints, even right next to him. He was starving again, so he ate some of the meat, made a fire with the sticks (and some matches that were in his bag) and went right back to sleep.

This time when Tom woke up, he stretched out his arms and touched something unfamiliar. He turned around and saw that it was a sleeping wolf. The wolf didn't look that big now. It was probably a young adult that was not yet fully grown. The wolf woke up and looked at him, it didn't look frightening at all, it almost looked friendly. Tom didn't feel scared with this massive wolf by his side, but he didn't feel too comfortable with him either. The wolf seemed to hear something because he stood up and ran away.

A few minutes later he heard the wolf howling at something. Soon, Tom heard people talking, he recognized their voices, it was his parents. He called to them and a minute later they were all asking him questions and everybody was talking at once. Tom looked around to find the wolf, but couldn't. He didn't tell his parents about the wolf because they wouldn't believe him, but he never forgot about the wolf that saved his life.

Caveat Emptor: Let the Buyer Beware

Sarah Coad Sec.V

I was shopping in Vancouver last year when I came across the most outrageous pair of shoes you can imagine. They were tall, woven, cream and brown works of art. Being female, of course I couldn't resist them. I walked right into the store and bought the last pair. Sure, they were a size too small and had two-inch platforms, but I knew these shoes were a once-in-a-lifetime opportunity. It was only when I got home that I began to think about where I would wear these outstandish shoes. I still haven't figured that out; since then, they haven't budged from the bottom of my closet.

Countless mistakes like these have caused me to develop a personal motto: caveat emptor, or 'let the buyer beware'. This old Latin adage used to relate to the ancient times, when the daily shopping was done in a large forum and conducted by bartering and bargaining with each shopkeeper. There were no set prices and no quality control regulations, so vendors were free to quote any price they wished, and to sell you whatever they thought they could get away with.

This proverb doesn't only apply to shopping. 'Let the buyer beware' means that only the buyer is responsible for what he purchases. If you make a foolish investment, it is nobody else's fault for not informing you of this. You are responsible for your own purchases, your own choices, and your own actions. The key to good judgment is making informed decisions. If I had known beforehand that my new shoes were impossible to walk in, I could have saved myself the trouble of being broke for the next two months.

To me, the motto 'caveat emptor' now means that I accept responsibility for all my choices. All choices have consequences, and the consequences are what the aware buyer needs to decide if he can afford. The way to avoid feeling cheated, to get your money's worth, is to make only informed decisions. If I am going to have to live with the consequences of my choice, I want to know all there is to know about my options. Now when I shop for shoes, I walk around the store in them, I think about whether they will match my wardrobe, and I decide if I can afford them on my budget.

All decisions must be thought about carefully. Recently, my graduating class and I have had to think about next year's course selection. Although it's tempting to opt for the fun, easy courses like outdoor education or film history, I need to think about the impact this type of course load will have on my university applications. Can I afford to waste my time on frivolous studies at this stage of my education? No university will be impressed to see that I have done nothing to apply myself, or to prepare for the future. I would be far wiser to start finding out what requirements certain university programs have, where my chosen courses will take me in terms of further education, and how far I want to go in the future. By accruing all this information, I can make good decisions concerning my future.

Of course, sometimes it is more fun to make a random decision when you know the consequences will be insignificant. You don't always need to research your dilemma meticulously before being able to make a decision. Often, a gut feeling, your intuition, is more reliable than your intellect. When you meet someone, you may know right away whether the two of you can become friends. You don't need to become a private eye and snoop through their private affairs to learn all about them. You may be channel-surfing while watching television and decide to watch a show you've never seen, even if it's trash. In this case, you can probably afford the wasted half-hour.

Even small risks like these may sometimes backfire. I was once in a foreign restaurant and adventurously chose a dish I'd never heard of. That night, I had an allergic reaction to it and was sick for two days. Another time, I auditioned for the school play on a whim, and actually got the part I wanted. The excitement wore off as soon as I realized how much time was involved. It was too late to back out, and because of all the rehearsals, my grades slipped and I found myself tired and cranky all the time.

Finally, of course, there's one forlorn pair of shoes in my closet that I know will never be worn. These mistakes were because of rash, unmeditated decisions that I have no one to blame for but myself.

By informing yourself on the pertinent issues concerning your choice and consequences of the choice you make, you are being an aware buyer, the investment in question being your personal time and energy. This is the path to good judgment and responsible choices.

<<Le Prince Maigrelaid>>

par Joanna Herba Secondaire 3

Il était une fois, dans le royaume Grasdure, un jeune prince qui s'appelait Maigrelaid. Comme son nom l'indique, le prince était maigre et laid. Au contraire, son frère Richard était beau, grand, athlétique, mais très méchant. Un jour, quand le prince Maigrelaid se promenait dans le royaume voisin, il vit la princesse Clothide qui le regardait par la fênetre de son château. Comme le temps était arrivé pour le prince Maigrelaid de se marier, il décida de conquérir le coeur de Clothide.

Maigrelaid alla a demander à la princesse de l'épouser. Elle répondit: <<Je ne peux pas épouser quelqu'un de si laid et maigre !>>, mais il n'abandonna pas. Il retourna à la maison et expliqua son problème à son parrain, Mordicus l'Enchanteur. Mordicus lui donna une potion magique qui le transforma en un bel homme fort et brave.

Penaud, le garçon de l'étable, remarqua le transformation de Maigrelaid et raconta à la mère de Clothide: <<maigrelaid a pris une potion magique. il n'est qu'un trucage !>>. Maigrelaid a pris ce que Penaud avait dit et demanda à sa gouvernante de l'aider à impressioner la mère de Clothide. la gouvernante organisa alors un grand banquet à la gloire de la mère de la princesse. Poilaudent, le méchant cuisiner du château, décida d'empoisonner la nourriture. Heuresement, et par chance, la gouvernante remarqua le poison dans la nourriture et sauva à temps les invités.

Tout était maintenant parfait; Maigrelaid était un bel homme fort et la mère de Clothide était contente à cause de banquet. La seule chose qui l'empêchait de demander la main de Clothide était sa timidité. Maigrelaid expliqua son problème à son frère Richard, car Richard était audacieux. Maigrelaid croyait que son frère pourrait l'aiderà vaincre sa timidité. Richard répondit: <<La première règle pour être moins timide est de se comporter de façon très autoritaire et condescendante. les femmes adorent les hommes comme ça>>. richard savait bien que ses conseils étaient complètement faux, mais il voulait rendre la vie de Maigrelaid plus difficile. Maigrelaid alla alors parler à Chlotide selon les conseils de son frère. Au début, Chlotide ne voulait pas l'épouser, mais quand elle comprit que c'était la faute de Richard si Maigrelaid était si audacieux, elle décida autrement.

Le mariage de Maigrelaid et de Clothide eut lieu le lendemain et ils vécurent en paix pour le reste de leurs jours. Richard mourut à cause de sa méchanceté et Penaud et Poilaudent furent congédiés.

The Study Old Girls' Association

S.O.G.A. was established in 1924 with an aim to provide a network for graduates to stay in contact with each other, to act as a resource centre, and to help retain interest in the school. In addition, the School looks to its alumnae to serve on special projects, to give talks on career days, and to help with fundraising efforts. At present, there are 1600 members in S.O.G.A. of which 609 reside in the province of Quebec. S.O.G.A.'s continued involvement in the School includes a variety of events and activities. These range from hosting the graduates' luncheon, helping to fund the graduation dance, donating equipment and books to The Study, volunteering as guest speakers for Career Day, the Annual Church Service and lending a helping hand at various school events such as Open House. S.O.G.A. also holds regional gatherings during the year and has all the necessary information to organize class reunions. The true beauty of S.O.G.A. is its ability to allow every student to keep in touch both with friends and memories that are so unique to The Study.
